

DRINKS MENU

Plough & Feather was named in the English tradition of double banger pub names. 'Plough' is representative of the first mechanical plough in NZ being used right outside this building, just over 200 years ago. 'Feather' is representative of Maori who inhabited this land prior to and during the English settlement. In fact, this land was the first place in the country that Maori and Europeans lived together in a village successfully. Giving rise to Kerikeri's slogan as the Cradle of the Nation. The Huia bird sitting graciously atop the plough is symbolic of the aim for integration and harmony in Aotearoa.
